

Senate Democrats Avoid the Question of NRA Political Bad Medicine

WASHINGTON — From all the fire and counterfire regarding the continued life of the NRA, one thing definitely emerges: — politically, the NRA is bad medicine.

This is why the Senate is so hostile. Democrats in the Senate want to steer clear of it for that reason. Republicans want to use it as campaign ammunition against the Democrats. Neither wants to take the risk of championing it.

Political fright is the main factor behind the Senate Finance Committee's vote to grant the NRA a breathing spell only until next April. The Committee did not dare flaunt the President outright by going the whole way and voting to junk the NRA entirely—as all but a few members would have liked to do.

But it did the next thing to it. Its proposal would strip NRA authority to the bone, would limit its existence to such a brief period that there is grave doubt of its chances to survive.

Members of the Senate Committee are boasting openly that if their short-term program goes through it will be the beginning of the end for the Blue Eagle.

And frightened Administrations are not disputing the assertion. They know only too well how true it is.

Who Rules Diplomacy?

The State Department at last has found something which will keep Ambassador Hugh Gibson both occupied and happy. He is to mediate the Chaco War in South America.

Most brilliant diplomatic star during the hectic Hoover days of moratoriums, disarmament and naval conferences, Hugh Gibson has tarnished badly under the New Deal.

He had spent too many weeks fishing on the Rapidan. Roosevelt, not wishing to fire him, exiled him to Brazil as ambassador.

There Gibson was most unhappy. Chief trouble was his wife. A native of Belgium, she hated to be moved from the American Embassy in Brussels where she had been mistress for years. Brazil, to her, was wilderness. She fretted and fumed.

As a result, Gibson finally took his back to Europe. He got sixty days leave with pay. Then he got fifty days additional sick leave with pay.

Although nominally Ambassador to Brazil, he is still in Europe. Now the State Department will send him to Buenos Aires for the Chaco Conference—and hopes Mrs. Gibson will like it.

Internal Revolt

The walk-out of the auto workers was a declaration of war upon others besides the employers who refused union recognition. It was also a rank-and-file uprising against A. F. of L. leadership.

The inside fact is that the A. F. of L. moguls disapproved of a strike in the industry as heartily as the auto magnates.

First, they privately doubted its chances of success and were fearful of the consequences of a defeat. Second, they were deathly afraid of possible reverberations among restive workers in the steel and textile industries, where strong insurgent elements are demanding militant action.

And, finally, the labor chieftains in their truce pact with the President several months ago promised to keep the lid down on labor disturbances until the NRA and Wagner Labor Disputes bills had been disposed of.

But the auto workers took the bit in their teeth.

In secret polls conducted by the A. F. of L. they voted over-

COUNTY 'DADS' SEEK SUPPORT OF THEIR MOVE

Report Quiet Campaign to be Made to Gain Officials' Support

OPINIONS DIVIDED

Letters to be Prepared, is Rumor Today

The relief question remained at a standstill today although a report has been circulated freely that letters are to be sent to township trustees and other officials urging their support of the move of the county commissioners refusing to accept appointment of Winfred L. Utley, Cleveland, as relief director replacing Howard Irwin and thereby jeopardizing all federal relief coming into the county.

The letters have not yet been written but the commissioners and several others have discussed sending them in an effort to bring the wave of public support in their direction.

Waits for Letter

C. C. Stillman, federal director of relief, has declared that he would be very happy if the commissioners should decide to handle relief from the county's own general fund. He said that he was waiting for a letter from the officials stating officially their stand before he decides to permanently withhold all federal relief from this county.

There is a divided opinion over the action in rejecting Utley and by that move taking away outside funds. Those who support Relief Director Howard Irwin and his policy to continue relief orders instead of cash relief are in a great majority. They do not believe a person from Cuyahoga or any other county can come here and do the job so well as Irwin is doing it.

Money Available

On the other hand a great majority also object to removing the county from the federal benefit list. Federal money is available, they say, and it is going to be spent somewhere so why can't Pickaway have its share? If Stillman interprets the commissioner's move in such a way that he will deny all federal funds to this county all contemplated projects will necessarily be erased from the slate. The city does not have enough money to finance its own projects although it has been planning several with the aid of government cash.

Mr. Irwin attributes his ouster by Stillman to the question of cash relief and relief orders, and it is believed the letters reported to be sent to the trustees and others would include the question: "Do you desire cash relief or relief orders in your district?"

The answer will probably be nearly a unanimous "relief order" verdict.

Supervision Stressed

Stillman insists that if Pickaway-co is to have federal aid it must also have federal supervision and that is what the commissioners are struggling against.

As yet the county dads have not notified Stillman in a letter what they intend to do.

"NO THRILL," SAYS AMELIA OF FLIGHT

Amelia Earhart

Greeted By Great Crowd At Newark Airport After Setting Mexican Mark

NEW YORK, May 9—It's all in the day's work for Amelia Earhart Putnam. A tough day's work, but—just the day's work.

That's the way she took her latest record as she lolled in her apartment today—a refreshed Amelia from the almost hysterical girl who swooped from the skies at Newark airport last night after a 14-hour, 18-minute vigil alone in the air, droning over the difficult 2,075-mile "coast and gulf" stretch between Mexico City and New York.

"It was very uninteresting," she said. "Nothing exciting except crossing the gulf. That was not particularly pleasant."

Traveled 150 an Hour

And as to the swell job she did in clocking off the span, hitherto untied as a non-stop flight, at the rate of 151 miles an hour—

"Why, all I did was to use the radio clothesline the department of commerce weather service hung out for me."

And that was that. The aviatrix said she was tired when she landed. She looked tired. Her face was lined, her eyes tense and her hair rumpled. A racing, pushing mob of 3,000 rumbled her more, almost precipitating a minor riot as it ganged the flier and her plane as they came to earth. A mass of humanity surrounded the tiny plane, pulled the girl flier from atop, seethed and squirmed to touch her. Finally police broke through, beating a path with sticks. Furious, her husband, George Palmer Putnam, crashed to her side. Amelia was whisked into a little

SPEAKER ASKS CENT INCREASE IN LIQUID TAX

Bittinger Appears Before Taxation Committee Urging Action

CITES DIRE NEED

Up to Legislature, he States Today

CO'UMBUS, May 9—Laying aside the speaker's gavel momentarily, Speaker J. Freer Bittinger (D) of Ashland, appeared before the house taxation committee today to make an urgent appeal for an immediate increase of one cent per gallon in the liquid fuel tax to pay old-age pensions during the last half of 1935.

"The liquid fuel tax increase is the only concrete proposal that will do the job and do it right," Bittinger told the committee.

"It's nice to say we want to reduce the cost of government but as yet no member has come forward with a concrete proposal to do it," he said.

The speaker declared that as a member of the last legislature he voted against the old-age pension law and that his county was one of six in the state that voted against the initiated bill at the November, 1933 election, but that pensions had been voted by the people and it was the legislature's duty to provide funds for their payment.

"We have got to put on some kind of tax that will produce revenue between now and January 1," Bittinger admonished the committee.

CONTRACTOR KILLS KIN, 21, SUICIDES

COLUMBUS, May 9—Possible insanity, brought on by the effects of a narrow escape from moxide gas several months ago and also by worry over business reverses, was advanced here today as an explanation for the murder-suicide tragedy last night when Edward J. Eagan, 48, Hilltop contractor, killed his daughter-in-law and then shot himself.

Only a few months ago, Eagan experienced a narrow escape from death when he was overcome by gas while attempting to start his car in the garage of his home.

"It left dad in bad shape," his son, Edward A. Eagan, 21, told police.

Last night, the elder Eagan went into the basement of his home. Later, his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Beulah Eagan, 21, a stenographer, also went into the basement to wash some clothing. Shortly afterward three shots were fired. When other members of the family reached the bottom of the basement stairs, they found both Eagan and his daughter-in-law dead.

UTILITY WANTS POWER TO END ITS FIRE HELP

Ohio Water Service Co. Would Stop Protection in Four Cities

WANTS BILLS PAID

Official Says Such Action is Impossible

Fire protection was threatened here and in three other Ohio cities today as a result of an application filed in the Ohio public utilities commission by the Ohio Water Service Co. asking that it be permitted to discontinue water service for fire protection.

The hearing date is June 11. The reason cited was that the cities, Circleville, Washington C. H., Marysville and Massillon are indebted to the utility for approximately $170,000.

The application of the water service company to the utilities commission hinted that the failure of the municipalities to "pay up" had forced the company to file bankruptcy proceedings in federal court at Cleveland last week.

Circleville Lowest

Amounts owed the company by the four cities to March 13, 1935, according to the petition are: Circleville, $12,913.59; Massillon, $108,605.41; Washington C. H., $30,763.33; and Marysville, $17,997.72.

The company provides domestic and commercial water service in all four cities, but the application asks authority only to discontinue serving the municipalities with water for fire protection.

In the bankruptcy proceeding the utility instructed its various managers that efforts would be made to force payment of the delinquent bills for fire protection. It was not hinted that such an application would be filed.

Official coffee One city official today scoffed at the application to halt fire protection service saying that the commission would never put up with such an action, and that he believed it was just a move to try to force the four cities to arrange to pay their indebtedness.

BRIGNER, TRAPPED IN WELL, UNHURT

Darbyville Man Covered By Earth, Rocks for 90 Minutes Wednesday

Ernest Brigner, of Darbyville, had a narrow escape from death Wednesday afternoon when he was trapped 10 feet below the ground under dirt which caved in while he was cleaning a well on the property of John Downs.

Brigner was standing on a ladder when the dirt caved from under a cement cover and wedged him against the ladder. The fact that he was on the ladder probably saved him because his face was protected by a rung permitting him to breathe.

A number of his fellow-villagers ran to his rescue when the cave-in was discovered and worked frantically for more than one and one-half hours to remove him. Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver and Fire Chief Talmage were hurried to the scene after obtaining an oxygen tank from Berger hospital. The tank was not needed, however, with Brigner being able to walk around after being removed from the well.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Four persons, one of them a woman, stood convicted here today in the first Lindbergh law prosecution in New York state.

The quartet face life imprisonment, inasmuch as the government did not ask capital punishment, which the Lindbergh law authorizes.

The defendants, allegedly members of an international dope smuggling ring, were convicted of kidnapping and torturing two French line seamen, whom they suspected of stealing a shipment of drugs.

Four other defendants, including two more women, were acquitted of the same charges. The jury failed to agree in the case of the ninth defendant, a man.

Those convicted are Salvatore Mancuso, reputed leader of the band, his wife, Nellie, Ignazio B. Fusari and Joseph Messina. Fusari's wife, Antoinette, Angelo Saullo, Vincent Lomanaco and his wife, Perina, were acquitted.

police coupe and across the field to a hanger.

Smiling, she climbed to the top of the car. Feet dangling, a basket of tulips, roses and gladiolus—gift of Emilio Portes Gil, Mexican minister of foreign affairs—at her side she posed for pictures and told of encountering clouds and strong headwinds over the Gulf of Mexico, talking to radio men “until I became hoarse,” and food.

“Whoever provided the food apparently didn’t agree with me on my diet,” she said. “I asked for one hard boiled egg, one sandwich and tomato juice. There were six eggs, four chicken sandwiches, tomato juice and a container of cocoa.”

She stuck to the original.

“Crowd Disgraceful

Putnam, who fussed for hours around the field as the world awaited word of his daring flight, talking to officials and newspapermen and making painstaking plans only to have them upset within a split-second by the crowd, termed the mob scene “the most disgraceful” he had ever witnessed.

“Mexico City is four times as civilized as Newark,” he said.

Maximum speed during the flight was 180, Miss Earhart said, and minimum, 110. She encountered clouds most of the way and headwinds during the entire trip, she said. Her motor functioned perfectly from takeoff, at 8:10 a. m., to her perfect three-point landing, at 10:28 p. m. Laughingly she said she thought she might have bettered the record by three minutes—if a transport plane hadn’t been landing at the moment of her arrival. She was forced to cruise that long.

48 PLANES SET FOR MASS FLIGHT
HONOLULU, T. H. May 9.—Their movements shrouded in war-time secrecy, 48 naval fighting airplanes were poised at Pearl Harbor naval base today, fueled and in readiness for a long flight.

Two hundred officers and men were standing by, ready to take off on an unprecedented mass flight, expected to take them to the Midway islands, a small group in the Pacific 1,300 miles northwest of here.

The flight was believed to be a part of the secret fleet maneuvers now underway in the Pacific.

Though Commander Wayne E. Todd, who will head the flight, would not comment on its destination or purpose, he admitted Admiral Alfred W. Johnson, who left here aboard the U. S. S. Chester two days ago, would direct the flight by radio.

Little Known Facts About Banking

Depositors Who Take Banking Service "For Granted"

For so many years during “easy times” banks furnished checking account service without cost to depositors, that even today few depositors realize there is any cost to the bank, either.

Jones maintains a balance of $200 in his account—the income from the use of which to the bank during any one month, actually pays for about 60 cents worth of banking service. But, if the service the bank renders Jones costs more than 60 cents, who should reimburse the bank for the difference?

Bank depositors in the United States enjoy more and better banking privileges, at little or no expense, than in any country of the world.

BANDITS STRIKE TRIO OF PLACES
Loot Total $14,000, $10,000 and $3,800 in Widely Separated Areas

WORCESTER, Mass., May 9.—Three bandits today escaped with $14,400, a $225 diamond ring and an undetermined number of stock certificates and insurance policies after holding up the Green-dale branch of the Worcester Institute of Savings. Two bank employees were herded into a back-room while the stickup was in progress.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., May 9.—Forcing 16 victims to sit on the floor, five armed bandits today held up the Broadway branch of the Highland Quassaick National bank here and escaped with approximately $10,000 in cash.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Five bandits, three of them wearing police uniforms, today staged a quick raid on the Edison General Electric appliance company plant here and escaped with a $3,800 payroll.

EXPLOSION FATAL TO TWO CHILDREN
MIDDLETOWN, May 9.—Little Owen McGuire, 3 years old, and his sister, Dorene, 8, will never “play house” again.

They are dead today.

“Just like grown-ups,” the two children were “playing house” in the yard of their parent’s home here yesterday when they attempted to rekindle a bonfire. They used a can of gasoline and an explosion resulted, catching their clothing with flames.

Although Claude McGuire, their father, rushed to the rescue of his children, the flames already had too badly seared the victims and they died shortly afterward.

The father suffered serious burns in his valiant attempt to save his children and a neighbor child, Christine Barker, 7 also was badly burned.

BILL TO INCREASE PATROL SUPPORTED
COLUMBUS, May 9.—The Carey bill increasing the number of Ohio highway patrolmen from 60 to 120, passed in the House by a vote of 87 to 24, today was sent to the Senate for concurrence.

While it doubles the number of patrolmen, Rep. John Carey (D) Toledo, said his measure actually provides for a net increase of only 32 in the entire department personnel.

At present there are 78 employees in addition to the 60 patrolmen. This includes many “inspectors” or apprentice patrolmen, Carey’s bill reduces the number of non-uniformed employees to 50, including inspectors, radio operators and stenographers.

whelmingly for resort to the picket line to enforce their demand for union recognition. After weeks of waiting for their leaders to act on this mandate, nothing happened. The workers walked out — on the leaders as well as on the bosses.

So out of touch was the A. F. of L. leadership with what was going on among the workers that Francis Dillon, chief auto organizer, was in Washington when the first outbreak occurred in Toledo.

It is significant of the underlying distrust of the embattled workers for the A. F. of L. generalissimo that they have set up their own strike committees, vested with the sole power to make peace terms.

Capitol Nude

Recent changes made in the appearance of the Capitol's Statuary Hall are not the first that historic chamber has seen.

Some years ago the walls of the large, vaulted room were covered with a painted imitation of Sienna marble. Scattered over this decoration were a number of painted pictures, among them likenesses of Theodore Roosevelt, William McKinley and Mark Hanna.

Only one of the pictures, however, proved a real drawing card. It occupied a most inconspicuous place amid these notables, but was pointed out by all Capitol guides.

Complaints finally caused the Capitol Architect to remove the picture. To do this he had to abolish the entire painted marble decoration.

Reason for the censorship was that the design was a full-length nude.

Merry-Go-Round
The much-ballyhooed “lifting” of the gag rule in the House is just so much hot air. The Democratic rulers have not rescinded the rule, merely did not enforce a full gag when the Social Security and Banking Bills were considered. The gag rule remains intact ready for use whenever they deem it necessary. . . . Texas's irrepresible Representative Maury Maverick has organized the “Maverick Club of America.” Membership is limited to those who are “in good physical condition and 51 per cent free from inhibitions and prejudices.” . . . The RFC took in $6,000,000 more in receipts in March than it paid out. It made loans amounting to $40,339,664 and received payments on debts of $46,682,732. . . . Philadelphia's Democratic Frank Dorsey holds a record for injuries in athletics. Dorsey, who was a five-sport man in college, bears scars from the following: a broken ankle in baseball, a broken collar-bone in football, six weeks in bed from a “floor burn” in basketball, another six weeks picking cinders out of his thigh from a track meet, and two months of incapacity from a wrenched knee in soccer.

After a business meeting, the following program was presented by group 2 of the society with Mrs. Denny Pickens as chairman. The first number was a tableau, representing "Whistlers Mother," Mrs. Jacob Hatzog taking the part of the mother, while Mrs. Denny Pickens recited several appropriate poems. Mrs. Roy Stout read the poem, "The Mother" and Mrs. Charles Boyer, "The Other Mother."

"Songs My Mother Taught Me" was a vocal solo by Miss Eloise Hatzog and Mrs. Elmer Wolf read "A Beatitude for Mothers." The group sang "In the Gloaming," "Long, Long Ago" and "Tell Mother I'll Be There" after which Dr. Troutman spoke on "Three Beautiful Words, Mother, Home and Heaven."

GENERAL FEDERATION TO MEET JUNE 4-12

Election of delegates to the triennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs is on the calendar of many Ohio clubs during May. The possibility of electing an Ohio woman president of this largest organization of women in the world, is keeping interest high among the 155,000 club women of the state.

Nearly 500 Ohio women will attend the triennial in Detroit, June 4-12 and more than 5000 delegates are expected to represent every state in the union and many foreign countries. Dr. Josephine Peirce, Ohio's candidate, is the guest of many state conventions during the two months preceding the triennial. Ohio club women, meeting in Columbus in April, held their Peirce banquet without the guest of honor, since they had agreed to share her with club women in Kansas and North Dakota, during that week. Among the state federation meetings, which Dr. Peirce will attend are Arkansas, May 1-2; West Virginia, May 7; Kentucky, May 9, and Indiana, May 22. Recently she has been guest speaker at large dinner meetings of club women in Buffalo, New York, Cincinnati and Youngstown.

Only a Little Time and Wool Make a Jiffy-Knit

Alice Brooks, always alert to the newest in needlework, has designed this jiffy-knit that is as flattering in line as it is lacy. Besides being done quickly, it uses very little wool and that, of course, is always an attractive feature. The design is the same lovely lacy, pattern throughout, except the frilled collar which adds contrast as well as grace to the entire blouse. The puff sleeves are most attractive. A plain knitted skirt is most attractive with this blouse.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main St., Circleville, O.

UNBECOMING A GENTLEMAN

IF ONE thing better than another puts professional sports ahead of the amateur variety, it is the occasional conduct unbecoming a gentleman of the participants. It is the reason for a persistent popularity of professional wrestling, professional hockey and a host of other athletic endeavors; and it was the touch which lent color recently — in a defined sort of way — to a notable professional tilt at bridge (a new sport). Here and there the behavior may have been unbecoming gentlemen and impossible to amateurs; it was also the inspiration for fat gate receipts.

In none of these, however, does the spectator get so completely into the spirit of deportment which is both unethical and lousy as in professional baseball. The inalienable right of the bleacher inhabitant to hurl invective and pop bottles with equal vigor at the enemy in right field is a large part of the reason for his expenditure at the turnstile. Once safe in his bleacher seat (the grandstand is for sissies) he is a vocal and intensely partisan critic, beholden to nobody in his opinions and his methods of expressing them. The more unbecoming the conduct on the field, the more expression in the bleachers and the more commerce at the gate.

After a lapse there is now a most gratifying evidence of returning vigor in the national pastime. The evidence was unmistakable in the series last October (who will forget the Battle of Detroit?) and it is already discernible in the season of 1935. Sports writers are dusting off words and phrases of the war correspondents of twenty years ago, and Chicago and Brooklyn are described in terms of Mons and Ypres. From the point of view of the blood-thirsty fan, it looks like a great one!

A reader asks the proper way to greet guests. The usual way is to say: "The house is in a mess. I haven't had time, etc."

Awful thought! Invading troops might kill 30,000 a year and escape punishment by disguising themselves as fool drivers.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

"Fewer and better churches" was the slogan sounded by Rev. B. F. Lamb, executive secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches, in an address to the men of Pickaway-co churches at a sapper meeting held at the United Brethren community house.

The Business and Professional Women's club elected new officers as follows: President, Mrs. Anna Chandler; vice president, Miss Mary Howard; recording secretary, Miss Clara Southard; corresponding secretary, Miss Nell Anderson; treasurer, Miss Willetta Burns.

The Alumni association of Washington-twp held its first annual banquet at Mrs. Stebleton's hotel at Stoutsville. Boyd Stout was toastmaster.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

IS IT IMPOSSIBLE?

WHEN 10 PLAYERS state that a thing is impossible, the burden of proof that it can be accomplished must lie with a player taking an opposite view. An eleven player made a small bet with numerous clubmates that North can go game at no trumps, against an opening lead of the 4 of diamonds, against any defense subsequently intended to establish and utilize diamonds, but he offers no solution, so we must help.

Bidding went: South, 1-Spade; North, 2-Clubs; South, 2-Spades; North, 2-No Trumps; South, 3-No Trumps.

Before winning the opening lead in dummy, review the probabilities. The odds are 55 to 35 that spades cannot be established before diamonds are, even by giving opponents the first spade trick. The odds are 68 to 22 that clubs can be established by giving opponents two tricks, before diamonds can be established. Perhaps the 10 men played for spades. We will try clubs. Win the opening lead with dummy's K of diamonds. Lead a club. West will play the 3. As a successful finesse more often comes on the second lead than the first put up the

Q of clubs. East's Ace will win and he will lead another diamond. Win with dummy's Ace and lead back another club. When West plays the 9, finesse declarer's 10, as the one best hope of losing no more tricks in the suit. East's J will win and he will lead his third diamond, hoping to gain entry with the Q of hearts. Win the trick with declarer's Q. Declarer has won three diamond tricks. Opponents have won two club tricks. North holds three established clubs and East has two established diamonds. To go game the declarer has the following simple eight-card problem to solve, as shown in diagram.

Q 10 4 3
A 9 8 4
J 9 3
9 8

Q 10 4 3

Q 10 4 3
A 9 8 4
J 9 3

Q 10 4 3
A 9 8 4
J 9 3

To fulfill his contract North has to win three club tricks, two spade tricks and one heart trick. Run off the three club tricks. That may embarrass defenders. Let go one of dummy's spades and one of his hearts. Probably East will let go both his useless spades, which will indicate plainly enough that he hasn't the Ace of hearts, or he would be more likely to hold his spades, although declarer has no idea how major suit cards are divided. West must let go a single spade and two hearts. Win a trick with dummy's K of spades. Lead back a heart. If the Ace does not go up win with the K, then take ninth trick with the good spade.

GYPSY GIRL

CHAPTER 37

DOUGLAS remarked that Consuelo, if she returned to the gypsy camp would be a trouble-maker.

Consuelo did not hear Doug. She looked down again at the jewelry and slowly picked up the square ruby necklace which had been on Stewart's first gift to her.

"I shall take this. It is good for me to have something—something fine to show—something which might make them want me to stay." She fastened on the necklace and gathered up the rest of the jewels in her hands. "Take them, Douglas, they are for a gypsy." She poured over her shoulder the cheap costume bracelets which, with her gaudy costume, she still wore from the theater. "These for a gypsy. Anklets I shall buy again." Her eyes fell upon a diamond bracelet caught on the edge of his pocket. "Still, it is a shame to give them all away." She took the bracelet and put it on her arm, making a little face up at him.

"Gosh, mighty what an I going to do with all this stuff?" Doug shoved them further down into his pockets. "Just ripe for the gumpsters." He wiped his brow. "I can already see me lying cold and stiff on the sidewalk."

"Oh, Douglas, don't, or I shall take them all back." He sidestepped her.

"In any event I see myself in the lap of ease and luxury, no longer a prey for an old lady with a Peeking. Any old clothes, lady, rags, bottles, sacks?"

She kicked a fur coat contemptuously with her foot.

"Bah! Give them back to Stewart. He likes them so well." She spread the shawl the Dummy had given her on the floor and heaped the motley array of gypsy clothing upon it. "These I shall take. Who else could wear them but me?"

"Like that? No suitcases? No trunks?"

"What would I want with a trunk?" She knotted the corners of the shawl together, the gray clothes leaking out. With quick, deft movements she shoved them in and pulled the knots together. She looked around.

"On the train like that?"

"Oh, Doug, the train—I had forgotten. Call—quick, find out when one leaves—get me a ticket—anything—quick—I'd forgotten."

A few moments later Doug's voice reached her from the other room. "The only one tonight leaves in just 40 minutes; can you make it?" and at her answering "yes" he returned to the bedroom. "Snap into it now, baby, otherwise you'll have to wait for the morning train. We go to the Pennsylvania station. You'll have to go on to Pittsburgh and then take a bus back to Greensburg. Train fare, $15.82 without a berth. Change your clothes if you're going too, if Douglas, you have."

"Money, you ask me if I have money? When did I ever have money? Four dollars and 80 cents, baby, is my total capital at the present moment."

"Oh—She sat down, half sobbing. "But, Douglas, I must have some—the train—the bus—food—call Stewart—no—I can't do that. Oh, damnation! What shall I do?"

"Listen, baby, all kidding aside, you mean to sit there and tell me you haven't got any money? No cash? What about your weekly checks from Goldie? Come, come, you must have some."

She shrugged her shoulders. "Stewart's secretary takes them. My fine fellow tells me I must put them safe in a bank. Now, who ever heard of a gypsy putting money in a bank?" She looked up at him.

"But it's not money—this paper stuff with words written on it—gold it is! I want—silver dollars—I have not seen a dozen pieces in all of this New York. Always it is Stewart signs something. Always it is he says, 'What do you need money for? Anything you want I'll get you.' All I have got is a bank book and what good is that now when I have need of a train ticket?"

"For once I'm inclined to agree with you!" Doug scratched the back of his head. "Nearly two o'clock in the morning and train time getting closer and closer—gosh! Now, let's see—there's Stewart—only he's out. Who else—where else—I got it, the apartment house manager downstairs. You pay your rent, don't you?" Again she shrugged her shoulders. "I mean Stewart keeps up a small item like that, doesn't he?" He glanced at his watch. "We got to snap out of it. Have you got what you're going to take? Put a coat on, you can't go out in the cold like that. Hurry up."

Consuelo grabbed up the fur coat she had kicked so contemptuously and put it on. She handed Doug the heavily packed shawl and breathlessly began to search through the demure dresser drawers for the bank book. Doug called a cab.

"Never mind, baby, never mind—we'll do some other way. I'll find it and send it to you. It's good for cash, kid, go to any bank and they'll give you how to get it." He was "dig her out the door. "Listen, baby, I get in touch with you?"

"Help through Mr. Willowby—you know it?" Oh, you are the good one to me. Do you think we can catch man-ring all depends upon how hard the whinger sleeps and—let's. He was that the elevator button. "Crimes, his service. Where the heck is this sleepy dumbbell?" He moaned. "Now, baby, don't get excited. I'll tend to everything—" in a elevator doors opened. "Come on, boy, step on it, we're in a hurry."

"G. boy grinned, looking somewhere. Miss Consuelo, yes, yes—" Doug kicked her. "The just for—a walk."

"Oye, miss, have a good time." Doug's grin broadened.

His impulse Consuelo reached into her pocket and taking out the thing her fingers rested upon, he handed it to the boy.

"Oye, miss, for me?" His eye had opened as they stared at the star sapphire ring. She nodded and he held it in his hand. "Gosh—gosh—thanks—and—good—a good time—and—"

He groaned, muttering, "Maybe the old lady and the Peke." They were down. Doug dropped the bundle and admonishing Consuelo to wait for him, hastened to the manager's office.

Shortly afterward, he suffered serious burns in an attempt to save his and a neighbor child. Barker, 7 also was badly burned.

SEE MUSEUM EXHIBIT
(Chillicothe News-Advertiser)

The Ross County Historical Society has prepared a most interesting display of china, glass and pewter due to the hearty response of officials to owners. These displays are not only interesting from the point of the casual observer but are educational for those who enjoy the cultural aspects of such an exhibition.

The local society has made great progress in its work and there is every indication that its work will continue to grow in interest. The McClintock museum bids fair to become one of the most interesting spots in the city and should draw hundreds here during the course of a year.

If you are interested in matters historical and endorse the work of the society, attend the exhibit. If you are not a member plan today to join the society and lend your efforts to make it the success that it deserves to be.

How Medics Discovered Chloroform as Anesthesia

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A FEW YEARS ago, just before the war, there was a great deal of discussion in the newspapers and magazines about what was called "twilight sleep," a method of preventing pain in women in childbirth. The idea was by no means new, although certain enthusiastic advocates of the method which was called "twilight sleep" would lead one to believe it was.

As a matter of fact, soon after anesthesia with ether was proved to be a success, which was in 1846, people began to look for an anesthetic which was adapted to cases of childbirth.

In the gray Scotch town of Edinburgh, one of the most famous obstetricians in the world then practicing was James Y. Simpson. He had been interested in this subject for many years; indeed, from the time that as a little peasant boy he had become aware of his mother's sufferings during the birth of his younger brothers and sisters.

As soon as the discovery of ether was announced, Simpson made a journey to London and observed its effects in the surgical clinic of Robert Liston.

Discovers Chloroform
In 1847, about a year after ether was first publicly used, he returned home after a weary day's labor with his two assistants, Doctors Keith and Duncan. They found a package from a chemist who had been working with them, containing a very heavy liquid, which was called "chloroform."

They at first thought from its weight that it would be of little value as an anesthetic, but all three poured some on a handkerchief and began to inhale it. The result was surprising. Their fatigue vanished, conversation was of unusual intelligence, and they became bright-eyed and happy, until suddenly there was a crash and one after the other fell to the floor. Doctor Simpson awoke beneath a chair, his jaw dropped, his eyes staring, quite unconscious, and snoring in a most determined manner.

Doctor Simpson had an enormous obstetric practice, and soon put this substance, chloroform, to a practical test. He reported on Nov. 10, 1847, to the Medical-Chirurgical society: "I have now seen an immense amount of obstetrical pain and agony saved by its employment. And I most conscientiously believe that the proud mission of the physician is distinctly twofold—namely to alleviate human suffering as well as preserve human life."

Opposition Develops
Considerable opposition developed to its use on the basis that Divine Providence did not intend women to bear children painlessly. "How unnatural," an Irish woman said to Doctor Simpson, "for you doctors in Edinburgh to take away the pains of your patients."

"How unnatural," he replied, "it is for you to have swam over from Ireland to Scotland, against wind and tide, in a stamper."

THEATRES

AT THE CIRCLE
The presentation of Jessie Matthews, the newest star of Gaumont British, in "Evergreen," now being shown at the Circle theatre, proves how adroitly a spectacular musical show may sustain the course of a suspenseful romance.

Appropriately placed scenes in the filmed theatre shown in "Evergreen" afford the opportunity for the display of Miss Matthews' and her associates' talents as singers and dancers. They are backgrounded with a beauty chorus as large as any ever assembled for a film production.

AT THE GRAND
Fay Wray and Ralph Bellamy, who were co-starred recently in Columbia's "Below the Sea," again play opposite each other on "Once to Every Woman." At the Grand theatre tomorrow.

"Once to Every Woman" is based on the A. J. Cronin Cosmopolitan novelette, "Kaleidoscope in K." Lambert Hillier directed from a Jo Swerling script. Walter Sweeney, Mary Carlisle and Walter Byron are featured in the supporting cast.

AT THE CLIFTONA
Otto Kruger, featured with Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery in "Vanessa: Her Love Story," at the Cliftona theatre, is a native of Toledo, Ohio, descendant of an old Dutch family. Educated at the University of Michigan, Columbus and other colleges for seventeen years without ever acquiring a degree. Worked as forest ranger and telephone lineman before becoming an actor. Played in some minor companies, then crashed New York. Appeared on the stage in "The Natural Law," "Young America," "Seven Chances," "Here Comes the Bride," "The Gypsy Trail," "To the Ladies," "Will Shakespeare," "Trelawney of the Wells," "The Great Barrington," "Counsellor-at-Law" and "Private Lives." Signed a long-term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios and has distinguished himself in "Beauty for Sale," "The Prizefighter and the Lady," "The Comeback," and many other hits.

trekked to an improvised voting booth in the basement of Toledo's new federal building from 9 a. m. yesterday to 7:30 last night to cast secret ballots on the company proposals for settling the strike that has thrown more than 30,000 auto workers in a score of General Motors plants into unemployment.

The vote was announced as 1,251 rejecting the proposals and 605 accepting. A total of 1,856 ballots were cast, but many of them were imperfectly marked.

Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, and Thomas J. Williams, federal conciliator, conducted the poll.

McGrady and Williams were to attempt to meet with officials of General Motors Corp., today in a further attempt to settle the dispute, thrown into a turmoil again by yesterday's vote.

Fred Schwake, U. A. W. U. business agent, said the vote came out "just as I expected." He said:

"We are eager to open negotiations as soon as possible. There are 35,000 men and women idle in the industry and we are anxious to have them back on their jobs under satisfactory wage and working conditions. We will do our best to have their earning power restored as soon as possible."

COUNTY TRACK MEET FRIDAY; TIGERS TO VIE

New Holland Scene of Annual Event; CBL Meet Scheduled at Delaware

Unless rain again interferes the annual Pickaway-co track and field meet will be held Friday beginning at 9:30 a. m. at New Holland.

The meet was postponed from last Friday because the athletic field was under water.

New Holland's boys teams is expected to cop the gonfalon for another year but will face stern opposition from several of the county schools.

Tigers at Delaware Circleville high school's runners will travel to Delaware to take part in the Central Buckeye league meet. The Tigers are expected to make a splendid showing although their lack of strong field men may keep them out of the championship.

John Griffith, John Jenkins and Normie Coleman are the Tigers' best threats with Grant and Friley also expected to knock off some points.

No favorite has been suggested from the meet with all schools in the league being represented by strong aggregations.

Other participating schools will be Delaware, the host school; Westerville, Marysville, Grandview and Bexley.

CAPITAL WINS

COLUMBUS, May 9 — Capital university trackmen today boasted of a lop-sided victory scored yesterday over the Kenyon College "schmuckers" in a dual meet held here.

The Lutherans, winning 15 of the 16 events, tallied 103½ points to Kenyon's 27½.

Plodding through days of periodical pain is dangerous and so unnecessary today as to be almost inexcusable.

TONIGHT'S WINNERS TO BE CHALLENGED

Challenges are going to be hurried right and left tonight when Norman Aronson's second amateur card is staged at Scippo park. The evening's entertainment begins at 8:30 with Cum Robinson to be the third man in the ring.

Hershel Moats, who tips the beam at about 150 pounds, is ready to challenge Willie Gaines if Gaines defeats Salty Toles. Moats draws the color line therefore will not challenge the winner unless it is Gaines.

Gaines' younger brother will issue a defy to the winner of the Bird-Brown bout.

The two principals, Gaines and Toles, weighed in Wednesday evening, the former touching 150 on the scales and the latter 154.

With today's weather agreeable it is expected a large crowd will invade the Scippo athletic grounds to watch the battlers.

Last week's fights drew a good crowd despite poor weather.

NELLIE FLAG IS FAVORED

Big Filly Expected to Follow Mother to Victory in Pimlico Preakness

BALTIMORE, May 9—Lovers of the long-shot today were praying for rain Saturday and the name on every tongue was Nellie Flag, a brown, buxom bounding filly with feet as effective as the fins of a fish.

For Saturday will see the forty-fifth running of the Preakness stakes—Maryland's most glamorous classic of the track at Pimlico's old hill-top park.

And railroad and aristocrat alike recall how, back in 1924, Nellie Flag's sweet mama, Nellie Morse, under the silks of Bud (Mutt and Jeff) Fisher, copped this same classic under weather conditions that would have given pause to Johnnie Weismueller and a school of middle-aged shad.

Nellie Morse, as beautiful as a movie queen, broke the hearts that day of 14 other horses—all mares—who flourished behind in a glut of goo, just seeing Nellie home. Incidentally, she paid off a dozen to one.

Nellie Flag, her game daughter, arrived in Baltimore Tuesday from Louisville, where she ran fourth in the derby. The track at Churchill was a bit too fast for her liking. The Flag wants a lot of mud to make the going good and a few days before the derby she whipped a fast field on a sloppy track. This installed her as a favorite in the derby, but she didn't live up to expectations.

"PITILESS POLE" DEFEATS BURESH

COLUMBUS, May 9—Alex Kaschowski, the "Pitiless Pole," today reigned as un-crowned champion of the lightweight division after his surprise defeat of the "Wild Bushman," Stanley Buresh, in a rough and tumble encounter last night.

Buresh proved his own undoing when he launched a "kangaroo kick," his speciality at Kasobowski but, when the latter sidestepped, Buresh became so entangled in the ropes that the "Pole" scored an easy verdict.

RED BIRDS MOVE TO KANSAS CITY

COLUMBUS, May 9—With high hopes of ending their losing streak today against the Kansas City Blues, the Columbus Red Birds left the Twin Cities yesterday without winning a single tilt of the five played against the Millers and Apostles.

The Birds took another "on the chin" yesterday when the Kels handed them their seventh straight defeat by a 13 to 3 count. Cullop, star outfielder, saved the Flock from a shutout in yesterday's contest by slamming out a circuit clout with two mates on base in the eighth inning.

KANSAS CITY, May —Lawrence Barton, former first baseman of the Rochester club of the International League, was to join the Columbus Red Birds here today after being purchased by George M. Trautman, president of the Red Birds, late yesterday for a cash consideration.

DARBY SCHOOL NEWS

The Seniors gave their play, "The Blue Bag," April 26 before a packed house. The various parts were well played and people went home pleased with the performance. Because of the sudden illness of Bruce Ridgway, a leading member of the cast, James Hewitt played his part and did it very creditably.

Rev. Ewing of Mt. Sterling gave a very interesting talk on Reliability and Punctuality in Assembly, April 26.

The Junior-Senior Banquet will be held in the school building this Friday night.

"The Queen O'May", a musical cantata, was presented by the pupils of first three rooms last Thursday night, May 2. A fair-sized crowd was present, the weather being rather unfavorable to a large attendance. The young people played their parts admirably, thus showing the result of thorough preparation.

Rev. Ensley will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon on May 19 at the M. E. church at 8:00 o'clock. Special music will be furnished by the high school girls' chorus. School will be dismissed for the summer vacation on Tuesday, May 21.

A short commencement program is being arranged for the Eighth Grade graduates which will be given on May 21 at 2 p. m.

John W. Bricker, attorney general of the State of Ohio, will deliver the high school commencement address May 22 at 8:15. Jean McMillen is the class Valedictorian and Bruce Ridgway, the Salutatorian. Music will be furnished by a trio from the Capital College or Oratory and Music of Columbus. Tickets for the commencement will sell for 20c and will be put on sale at Matthes' store on Thursday, May 16 at 12 o'clock.

DAVEY TO PICK NEW HEAD FOR LIQUOR OFFICE

Burk, Advised He Is Ineligible, Resigns; Crawford-co Judge Favored

COLUMBUS, May 9.—With Probate Judge J.W. Miller, Bucyrus, reported to be his choice, Gov. Martin L. Davey today was expected to appoint a successor to Clarence H. Burk New London, who has conceded his ineligibility to continue in office and resigned effective May 11.

Miller has been probate judge of Crawford-co for seven years. In urging the governor to appoint him, the judge's friends have pointed out that he was the county's original "Davey-for-governor" man. Davey said Burk has done "an exceptionally fine job" as liquor director and will be retained in a responsible position in the liquor department. He was expected to be named supervisor of state liquor stores.

Advised Unlawful In his letter of resignation Burk said counsel has advised him his position is untenable and that the state supreme court, which has before it ouster proceedings instituted by Attorney General John W. Bricker would in all probability hold against Burk.

Grounds for the ouster action was Burk's service in the 90th General Assembly which created the position of liquor director. Ohio's constitution forbids a legislator from accepting a position created by an assembly of which he was a member, until after one year following the expiration of his elected term.

Burk's unexpected action in appealing to the attorney general at the eleventh hour to enter the proper pleading in answer to the ouster proceedings remained unexplained. Some thought his purpose was to get a formal ruling from the supreme court for future guidance of the governor's office.

Directed Finance In accepting his resignation "with regret," Davey said he hoped to find "an equally high type man" to succeed him. When Burk resigned from the legislature in July, 1933, he became director of finance in former Gov. George White's cabinet, serving until the latter's retirement on Jan. 14 this year.

BROWN EYES WIN PARIS.—The most beautiful eyes in Paris officially belong to Miss Mireille Ponsard, whose eyes are brown and flecked with gold. She was one of 30 candidates for the title. They wore masks and wore a number on their chin as they paraded in front of the judges.

UNAPPETIZING RABBITS PARIS.—Residents of Villejuif, Paris suburb, have sworn off eating rabbits for the rest of the season, a thief had entered Paul-Brusse hospital during the night and stole eight rabbits. The eight rabbits had all been inoculated within the last few days with either tuberculosis or a variety of cancer.

Militant crusader for autonomy of the Croatian minority in Yugoslavia, Dr. Vladimir Macke, above published an open letter of protest to Regent Nicholas in which he denounced numerous arrests of candidates opposing those sponsored by the administration. When 1,000 Croats rallied at his home in Zagreb, one was killed and many wounded as police tried to disperse the gathering. More than 18 have been slain during election activities by Croats and the Serbs, who are in the majority.

Senate Democrats Avoid the Question of NRA Political Bad Medicine

WASHINGTON — From all the fire and counterfire regarding the continued life of the NRA, one thing definitely emerges: — politically, the NRA is bad medicine.

This is why the Senate is so hostile. Democrats in the Senate want to steer clear of it for that reason. Republicans want to use it as campaign ammunition against the Democrats. Neither wants to take the risk of championing it.

Political fright is the main factor behind the Senate Finance Committee's vote to grant the NRA a breathing spell only until next April. The Committee did not dare flaunt the President outright by going the whole way and voting to junk the NRA entirely—as all but a few members would have liked to do.

But it did the next thing to it. Its proposal would strip NRA authority to the bone, would limit its existence to such a brief period that there is grave doubt of its chances to survive.

Members of the Senate Committee are boasting openly that if their short-term program goes through it will be the beginning of the end for the Blue Eagle.

And frightened Administrations are not disputing the assertion. They know only too well how true it is.

Who Rules Diplomacy?

The State Department at last has found something which will keep Ambassador Hugh Gibson both occupied and happy. He is to mediate the Chaco War in South America.

Most brilliant diplomatic star during the hectic Hoover days of moratoriums, disarmament and naval conferences, Hugh Gibson has tarnished badly under the New Deal.

He had spent too many weeks fishing on the Rapidan. Roosevelt, not wishing to fire him, exiled him to Brazil as ambassador.

There Gibson was most unhappy. Chief trouble was his wife. A native of Belgium, she hated to be moved from the American Embassy in Brussels where she had been mistress for years. Brazil, to her, was wilderness. She fretted and fumed.

As a result, Gibson finally took back to Europe. He got sixty days leave with pay. Then he got fifty days additional sick leave with pay.

Although nominally Ambassador to Brazil, he is still in Europe. Now the State Department will send him to Buenos Aires for the Chaco Conference—and hopes Mrs. Gibson will like it.

Internal Revolt

The walk-out of the auto workers was a declaration of war upon others besides the employers who refused union recognition. It was also a rank-and-file uprising against A. F. of L. leadership.

The inside fact is that the A. F. of L. moguls disapproved of a strike in the industry as heartily as the auto magnates.

First, they privately doubted its chances of success and were fearful of the consequences of a defeat. Second, they were deathly afraid of possible reverberations among restive workers in the steel and textile industries, where strike insurgent elements are demanding militant action.

And, finally, the labor chieftains in their truce pact with the President several months ago promised to keep the lid down on labor disturbances until the NRA and Wagner Labor Disputes bills had been disposed of.

But the auto workers took the bit in their teeth.

In secret polls conducted by the A. F. of L. they voted over-

COUNTY 'DADS' SEEK SUPPORT OF THEIR MOVE

Report Quiet Campaign to be Made to Gain Officials' Support

OPINIONS DIVIDED

Letters to be Prepared, is Rumor Today

The relief question remained at a standstill today although a report has been circulated freely that letters are to be sent to township trustees and other officials urging their support of the move of the county commissioners refusing to accept appointment of Winfred L. Utley, Cleveland, as relief director replacing Howard Irwin and thereby jeopardizing all federal relief coming into the county.

The letters have not yet been written but the commissioners and several others have discussed sending them in an effort to bring the wave of public support in their direction.

Waits for Letter

C. C. Stillman, federal director of relief, has declared that he would be very happy if the commissioners should decide to handle relief from the county's own general fund. He said that he was waiting for a letter from the officials stating officially their stand before he decides to permanently withhold all federal relief from this county.

There is a divided opinion over the action in rejecting Utley and by that move taking away outside funds. Those who support Relief Director Howard Irwin and his policy to continue relief orders instead of cash relief are in a great majority. They do not believe a person from Cuyahoga or any other county can come here and do the job so well as Irwin is doing it.

Money Available

On the other hand a great majority also object to removing the county from the federal benefit list. Federal money is available, they say, and it is going to be spent somewhere so why can't Pickaway have its share? If Stillman interprets the commissioner's move in such a way that he will deny all federal funds to this county all contemplated projects will necessarily be erased from the slate. The city does not have enough money to finance its own projects although it has been planning several with the aid of government cash.

Mr. Irwin attributes his ouster by Stillman to the question of cash relief and relief orders, and it is believed the letters reported to be sent to the trustees and others would include the question: "Do you desire cash relief or relief orders in your district?"

The answer will probably be nearly a unanimous "relief order" verdict.

Supervision Stressed

Stillman insists that if Pickaway-co is to have federal aid it must also have federal supervision and that is what the commissioners are struggling against.

As yet the county dads have not notified Stillman in a letter what they intend to do.

SEVEN INJURED AS PLANE TURNS OVER

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 9 — An American Airways Douglas airliner, bound from New York to Cleveland, crashed at the Buffalo airport at 11 a. m., today, injuring eleven pilots, the hostess and four passengers.

None was seriously hurt. First aid was administered at the field. The plane, piloted by Hank Sheridan, arrived ahead of schedule, according to airport attaches. In skirting workmen on the runway, it tipped over, breaking one wing.

"NO THRILL," SAYS AMELIA OF FLIGHT

Amelia Earhart

Greeted By Great Crowd At Newark Airport After Setting Mexican Mark

NEW YORK, May 9 — It's all in the day's work for Amelia Earhart Putnam. A tough day's work, but—just the day's work.

That's the way she took her latest record as she lolled in her apartment today—a refreshed Amelia from the almost hysterical girl who swooped from the skies at Newark airport last night after a 14-hour, 18-minute vigil alone in the air, droning over the difficult 2,075-mile "coast and gulf" stretch between Mexico City and New York.

"It was very uninteresting," she said. "Nothing exciting except crossing the gulf. That was not particularly pleasant."

Traveled 150 an Hour

And as to the swell job she did in clocking off the span, hitherto untried as a non-stop flight, at the rate of 151 miles an hour—

"Why, all I did was to use the radio clockline the department of commerce weather service hung out for me."

And that was that. The aviatrix said she was tired when she landed. She looked tired. Her face was lined, her eyes tense and her hair rumpled. A racing, pushing mob of 3,000 rumbled her more, almost precipitating a minor riot as they came to earth. A mass of humanity surrounded the tiny plane, pulled the girl flier from atop, seethed and squirmed to touch her. Finally police broke through, beating a path with sticks. Furious, her husband, George Palmer Putnam, crashed to her side. Amelia was whisked into a little

Jackson-twp and First Ward Lead Delinquents In Various Districts

Treasurer Earl Hoffman disclosed today that real estate tax delinquency in Pickaway-co amounts to $159,041.75. This figure is somewhat lower than at the same time last year with considerable delinquent tax paid in the recent collection when more than $225,000 was received by the official's office.

The tax distribution to the various districts of the county will not be made for several weeks, the books having not yet reached the office of Auditor Forrest Short.

Mr. Hoffman announced the delinquencies by townships and wards. Jackson-twp has the largest amount of delinquent tax, $18,369.08 with Darby second with $17,272.92. In Circleville the first ward had the largest delinquency with $16,731.37 remaining unpaid. The third ward is the lowest with only $6,995.51 as delinquent.

SPEAKER ASKS CENT INCREASE IN LIQUID TAX

Bittinger Appears Before Taxation Committee Urging Action

CITES DIRE NEED

Up to Legislature, he States Today

COLUMBUS, May 9 — Laying aside the speaker's gavel momentarily, Speaker J. Freer Bittinger (D) of Ashland, appeared before the house taxation committee today to make an urgent appeal for an immediate increase of one cent per gallon in the liquid fuel tax to pay old-age pensions during the last half of 1935.

"The liquid fuel tax increase is the only concrete proposal that will do the job and do it right," Bittinger told the committee.

"It's nice to say we want to reduce the cost of government but as yet no member has come forward with a concrete proposal to do it," he said.

The speaker declared that as a member of the last legislature he voted against the old-age pension law and that his county was one of six in the state that voted against the initiated bill at the November, 1933 election, but that pensions had been voted by the people and it was the legislature's duty to provide funds for their payment.

"We have got to put on some kind of tax that will produce revenue between now and January 1," Bittinger admonished the committee.

The home of William Hudson, Commercial Point, an employee of the packing company was stoned early Sunday morning.

CONTRACTOR KILLS KIN, 21, SUICIDES

COLUMBUS, May 9 — Possible insanity, brought on by the effects of a narrow escape from moxodine gas several months ago and also by worry over business reverses, was advanced here today as an explanation for the murder-suicide tragedy last night when Edward J. Eagan, 48, Hilltop contractor, killed his daughter-in-law and then shot himself.

Only a few months ago Eagan experienced a narrow escape from death when he was overcome by gas while attempting to start his car in the garage of his home.

"I left dad in bad shape," his son, Edward A. Eagan, 21, told police.

Last night, the elder Eagan went into the basement of his home. Later, his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Beulah Eagan, 21, a stenographer, also went into the basement to wash some clothing. Shortly afterward three shots were fired. When other members of the family reached the bottom of the basement stairs, they found both Eagan and his daughter-in-law dead.

The governor and the court of criminal appeals—turned down frantic last minute pleas.

Ohio State Faculty to Pass Through City

Members of the faculty of Ohio State university will travel through Circleville Sunday bound for an outing in Conkle's hollow. A picnic dinner will be spread at 1 p. m. so the faculty cavalcade is expected to go through here about noon.

Conkle's hollow has been selected for the picnic because of its beauty and the being less frequented, Harold Schellenger, in charge of the Ohio State news bureau, reports.

UTILITY WANTS POWER TO END ITS FIRE HELP

Ohio Water Service Co. Would Stop Protection in Four Cities

WANTS BILLS PAID

Official Says Such Action is Impossible

Fire protection was threatened here and in three other Ohio cities today as a result of an application filed in the Ohio public utilities commission by the Ohio Water Service Co. asking that it be permitted to discontinue water service for fire protection.

The hearing cited was June 11. The reason cited was that the cities, Circleville, Washington C. H., Marysville and Massillon are indebted to the utility for approximately $170,000.

The application of the water service company to the utilities commission hinted that the failure of the municipalities to "pay up" had forced the company to file bankruptcy proceedings in federal court at Cleveland last week.

Circleville's Loss
Amounts owed the company by the four cities to March 15, 1934, according to the petition, are: Circleville, $12,913.50; Massillon, $108,605.41; Washington C. H., $30,763.33; and Marysville, $9,772.

The company provides domestic and commercial water service in all four cities, but the petition asks authority only to discontinue serving the municipalities and water for fire protection.

In the bankruptcy proceedings the utility instructed its managers that efforts would be made to force payment of the delinquent water bills. It was not limited that such action would be filed.

Official's Note
One city official today stated at the application to halt the protection service saying that the commission would never put up with such an action, and that he believed it was just a move to try to force the four cities to arrange to pay their indebtedness.

BRIGNER, TRAPPED IN WELL, UNHURT

Darbyville Man Covered By Earth, Rocks for 90 Minutes Wednesday

Ernest Brigner, of Darbyville, had a narrow escape from death Wednesday afternoon when he was trapped 10 feet below the ground under dirt which caved in while he was cleaning a well on the property of John Downs.

Brigner was standing on a ladder when the dirt caved from under a cement cover and wedged him against the ladder. The fact that he was on the ladder probably saved him because his face was protected by a rung penetrating him to the breast.

A number of his fellow-villagers ran to his rescue when the cave-in was discovered and worked frantically for more than one and one-half hours to remove him.

Deputy Sheriff J. A. Weaver and Fire Chief Talmadge hurried to the scene after receiving an oxygen tank from the hospital. The tank was not needed, however, with Brigner being able to walk around after being removed from the well.

CONVICTED OF LINDBERGH LAW VIOLATION

To Serve Life In Prison; Four Acquitted, Jury Disagree
On Ninth

NEW YORK, May 9.—Four persons, one of them a woman, stood convicted here today in the first Lindbergh law prosecution in New York state.

The quartet face life imprisonment, inasmuch as the government did not ask capital punishment, which the Lindbergh law authorizes.

The defendants, allegedly members of an international dope smuggling ring, were convicted of kidnapping and torturing two French line seamen, whom they suspected of stealing a shipment of drugs.

Four other defendants, including two more women, were acquitted of the same charges. The jury failed to agree in the case of the ninth defendant, a man.

Those convicted are Salvatore Mancuso, reputed leader of the band, his wife, Nellie, Ignazio B. Fusari and Joseph Messina. Fusari's wife, Antoinette, Angelo Saullo, Vincent Lomanaco and his wife, Perina, were acquitted.

Dominick Galfano was the defendant over whom the jurors disagreed.

The nine were accused of luring Guillaume Rosen and Pierre Quette from the liner Champlain to the Mancuso apartment in Brooklyn where they were subjected to numerous tortures in an effort to make them reveal the whereabouts of a shipment of narcotics which had been secretly transported aboard the liner.

The convicted quartet will be sentenced tomorrow.

Little Known Facts About Banking

Depositors Who

Take Banking Service

"For Granted"

For so many years during "easy times"
banks furnished checking account service without cost to depositors, that even today few depositors realize there is any cost to the bank, either.

Jones maintains a balance of $200 in his account—the income from the use of which to the bank during any one month, actually pays for about 60 cents worth of banking service. But, if the service the bank renders Jones costs more than 60 cents, who should reimburse the bank
for the difference?

Bank depositors in the United States
enjoy more and better banking privileges, at little or no expense, than in any country of the world.

police coupe and across the field
to a hanger.

Smiling, she climbed to the top of the car. Feet dangling, a basket of tulips, roses and gladiolus—gift of Emilio Portes Gil, Mexican minister of foreign affairs—at her side she posed for pictures and told of encountering clouds and strong headwinds over the Gulf of Mexico, talking to radio men "until I became hoarse," and food.

"Whoever provided the food apparently didn't agree with me on my diet," she said. "I asked for one hard boiled egg, one sandwich and tomato juice. There were six eggs, four chicken sandwiches, tomato juice and a container of cocoa."

She stuck to the original.

"Crowd Disgraceful"

Putnam, who fussed for hours
around the field as the world awaited word of his daring flier-wife, talking to officials and newspapermen and making painstaking plans only to have them upset
within a split-second by the crowd, termed the mob scene "the most disgraceful" he had ever witnessed.

"Mexico City is four times as civilized as Newark," he said.

Maximum speed during the flight was 180, Miss Earhart said, and minimum, 110. She encountered clouds most of the way and headwinds during the entire trip, she said. Her motor functioned perfectly from takeoff, at 8:10
a. m., to her perfect three-point landing, at 10:28 p. m. Laughingly she said she thought she might have bettered the record by three minutes—if a transport plane hadn't been landing at the moment of her arrival. She was forced to cruise that long.

BILL TO INCREASE PATROL SUPPORTED

COLUMBUS, May 9.—The Carey
bill increasing the number of Ohio highway patrolmen from 60 to 120, passed in the House by a vote of 87 to 24, today was sent to the Senate for concurrence.

While it doubles the number of patrolmen, Rep. John Carey (D) Toledo, said his measure actually provides for a net increase of only 32 in the entire department personnel.

At present there are 78 employes
in addition to the 60 patrolmen.
This includes many "inspectors,"
or apprentice patrolmen, Carey's bill reduces the number of non-uniformed employes to 50, including inspectors, radio operators and stenographers.

48 PLANES SET FOR MASS FLIGHT

HONOLULU, T. H., May 9.—
Their movements shrouded in war-time secrecy, 48 naval fighting airplanes were poised at Pearl Harbor naval base today, fueled and in readiness for a long flight.
Two hundred officers and men were standing by, ready to take off on an unprecedented mass flight, expected to take them to the Midway islands, a small group in the Pacific 1,300 miles northwest of here.

The flight was believed to be a part of the secret fleet maneuvers now underway in the Pacific.

Though Commander Wayne E.
Todd, who will head the flight,
would not comment on its destination or purpose, he admitted Admiral Alfred W. Johnson, who left here aboard the U. S. S. Chester two days ago, would direct the flight by radio.

BANDITS STRIKE TRIO OF PLACES

Loot Total $14,000, $10,000
and $3,800 in Widely Separated Areas

WORCESTER, Mass., May 9.—
Three bandits today escaped with $14,400, a $225 diamond ring and an undetermined number of stock certificates and insurance policies after holding up the Green-dale branch of the Worcester Institute of Savings. Two bank employees were herded into a backroom while the stickup was in progress.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., May 9.—
Forcing 16 victims to sit on the floor, five armed bandits today held up the Broadway branch of the Highland Quassack National bank here and escaped with approximately $10,000 in cash.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Five bandits,
three of them wearing police uniforms, today staged a quick raid on the Edison General Electric appliance company plant here and escaped with a $3,800 payroll.

EXPLOSION FATAL TO TWO CHILDREN

MIDDLETOWN, May 9.—Little Owen McGuire, 3 years old, and his sister, Dorene, 8, will never
"play house" again.

They are dead today.
"Just like grown-ups," the two children were "playing house" in the yard of their parent's home here yesterday when they attempted to rekindle a bonfire. They used a can of gasoline and an explosion resulted, catching their clothing with flames.

Although Claude McGuire, their father, rushed to the rescue of his children, the flames already had too badly seared the victims and they died shortly afterward.

The father suffered serious burns in his valiant attempt to save his children and a neighbor child, Christine Barker, 7 also was badly burned.

UNCLE DAN HERE

Uncle Dan with Ted and Terry, radio entertainers have been in this city the past few days entertaining school children and others.
Tricks of magic with cards and other objects have kept the audiences in an uproar.

The radio program on which Uncle Dan appears is heard each evening at 6:30 over WBNS, Columbus.

The children were returning from a holiday excursion.
Thirty others were saved.

The newspaper Pravda said
an investigation was expected

gence.

Washington Merry-go-round

whelmingly for resort to the picket line to enforce their demand for union recognition. After weeks of waiting for their leaders to act on this mandate, nothing happened. The workers walked out on the leaders as well as on the bosses.

So out of touch was the A. F.
of L. leadership with what was going on among the workers that Francis Dillon, chief auto organizer, was in Washington when the first outbreak occurred in Toledo.

It is significant of the underlying distrust of the embattled workers for the A. F. of L. generalissimo that they have set up their own strike committees, vested with the sole power to make peace terms.

Capitol Nude

Recent changes made in the appearance of the Capitol's Statuary Hall are not the first that historic chamber has seen.

Some years ago the walls of the large, vaulted room were covered with a painted imitation of Sienna marble. Scattered over this decoration were a number of painted pictures, among them likenesses of Theodore Roosevelt, William McKinley and Mark Hanna.

Only one of the pictures, however, proved a real drawing card.
It occupied a most inconspicuous place amid these notables,
but was pointed out by all Capitol
guides.

Complaints finally caused the Capitol Architect to remove the picture. To do this he had to abolish the entire painted marble decoration.
Reason for the censorship was that the design was a full-length nude.

Merry-Go-Round

The much-ballyhooed "lifting" of the gag rule in the House is just so much hot air. The Democratic rulers have not rescinded the rule, merely did not enforce a full gag when the Social Security and Banking Bills were considered.
The gag rule remains intact ready for use whenever they deem it necessary. . . . Texas's irrepressible Representative Maury Maverick has organized the "Maverick Club of America." Membership is limited to those who are "in good physical condition and 51 per cent
free from inhibitions and prejudices." . . . The RFC took in $6,000,000 more in receipts in March than it paid out. It made loans amounting to $40,339,664
and received payments on debts of $46,682,732. . . . Philadelphia's Democratic Frank Dorsey holds a record for injuries in athletics.
Dorsey, who was a five-sport man in college, bears scars from the following: a broken ankle in baseball, a broken collar-bone in football, six weeks in bed from a
"floor burn" in basketball, another six weeks picking clinders out of his thigh from a track meet, and two months of incapacity from a wrenched knee in soccer.

LADIES' SOCIETY ENJOYS

MAY MEETING WEDNESDAY

The May meeting of the Ladies' society of Trinity Lutheran church was an interesting one, Wednesday evening, in the parish house and enjoyed by sixty members and a large number of guests.

A devotional service led by the president, Dr. G. J. Troutman, of India, was given by the missionary Luther Walters.

Miss Susie Wilson read, "The Unknown God," which was followed by an interesting report of the Women's Missionary conference recently held at Christ church, Bexley, given by Mrs. H. F. Gall, a delegate.

After a business meeting, the following program was presented by group 2 of the society with Mrs. Denny Pickens as chairman. The first number was a tableau, representing "Whistlers Mother," Mrs. Jacob Hatzog taking the part of the mother, while Mrs. Denny Pickens recited several appropriate poems. Mrs. Roy Stout read the poem, "The Mother" and Mrs. Charles Boyer, "The Other Mother."

"Songs My Mother Taught Me" was a vocal solo by Miss Eloise Hatzog and Mrs. Elmer Wolf read "A Beatitude for Mothers." The group sang "In the Gloaming," "Long, Long Ago" and "Tell Mother I'll Be There" after which Dr. Troutman spoke on "Three Beautiful Words, Mother, Home and Heaven."

Marion Sensenbrenner entertained with two vocal selections, "Mother of Pearl" and "That Old Irish Mother of Mine."

A social hour followed the program during which a delicious lunch was served in the dining room, pretty with a profusion of spring flowers.

The committee was comprised of Mrs. John Wardell, chairman, Mrs. Margaret Lake, Mrs. Dan Eitel, Mrs. William Reid, Mrs. Charles Kraft, Mrs. Albert Cook, Mrs. Roy Good, Mrs. H. F. Gall and Mrs. Edward Clendennan.

GENERAL FEDERATION

TO MEET JUNE 4-12

Election of delegates to the triennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs is on the calendar of many Ohio clubs during May. The possibility of electing an Ohio woman president of this largest organization of women in the world, is keeping interest high among the 155,000 club women of the state.

Nearly 500 Ohio women will attend the triennial in Detroit, June 4-12 and more than 5000 delegates are expected to represent every state in the union and many foreign countries.

Dr. Josephine Peirce, Ohio's candidate, is the guest of many state conventions during the two months preceding the triennial. Ohio club women, meeting in Columbus in April, held their Peirce banquet without the guest of honor, since they had agreed to share her with club women in Kansas and North Dakota, during that week. Among the state federation meetings, which Dr. Peirce will attend are Arkansas, May 1-2; West Virginia, May 7; Kentucky, May 9, and Indiana, May 22. Recently she has been guest speaker at large dinner meetings of club women in Buffalo, New York, Cincinnati and Youngstown.

UNBECOMING A GENTLEMAN

IF ONE thing better than another puts professional sports ahead of the amateur variety, it is the occasional conduct unbecoming a gentleman of the participants. It is the reason for a persistent popularity of professional wrestling, professional hockey and a host of other athletic endeavors; and it was the touch which lent color recently in a refined sort of way — to a notable professional tilt at bridge (a r-w sport). Here and there the behavior may have been unbecoming gentlemen and impossible to amateurs; it was also the inspiration for fat gate receipts.

In none of these, however, does the spectator get so completely into the spirit of deportment which is both unethical and lousy as in professional baseball. The inalienable right of the bleacher inhabitant to hurl invective and pop bottles with equal vigor at the enemy in right field is a large part of the reason for his expenditure at the turnstile. Once safe in his bleacher seat (the grandstand is for sissies) he is a vocal and intensely partisan critic, beholden to nobody in his opinions and his methods of expressing them. The more unbecoming the conduct on the field, the more expression in the bleachers and the more commerce at the gate.

After a lapse there is now a most gratifying evidence of returning vigor in the national pastime. The evidence was unmistakable in the series last October (who will forget the Battle of Detroit?) and it is already discernible in the season of 1935. Sports writers are dusting off words and phrases of the war correspondents of twenty years ago, and Chicago and Brooklyn are described in terms of Mons and Ypres. From the point of view of the blood-thirsty fan, it looks like a great one!

A reader asks the proper way to greet guests. The usual way is to say: "The house is in a mess. I haven't had time, etc."

Awful thought! Invading troops might kill 30,000 a year and escape punishment by disguising themselves as fool drivers.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

"Fewer and better churches" was the slogan sounded by Rev. B. F. Lamb, executive secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches, in an address to the men of Pickaway-co churches at a supper meeting held at the United Brethren community house.

The Business and Professional Women's club elected new officers as follows: President, Mrs. Anna Chandler; vice president, Miss Mary Howard; recording secretary, Miss Clara Southward; corresponding secretary, Miss Nell Anderson; treasurer, Miss Willetta Burns.

The Alumni association of Washington-twp held its first annual banquet at Mrs. Stebleton's hotel at Stoutsville. Boyd Stout was toastmaster.

15 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carter entertained at their country home in honor of their son, Thomas, a member of the graduating class of Williamsport high school.

Teachers and class members were guests.

Albert Work, of Marcy, traded his farm of five acres in Washington-twp to Abe Hudson for a residence property in Ashville and moved to that village.

Circleville girls gave a leap year dance at the C. A. C. gymnasium, a brilliant and successful social affair attended by 80 couples, many from neighboring towns.

25 YEARS AGO

IS IT IMPOSSIBLE?

WHEN 10 PLAYERS state that a thing is impossible the burden of proof that it can be accomplished must be with a player taking an opposite view. An eleven player made a small bet with numerous clubmates that North can go game at no trump, against an opening lead of the 4 of diamonds, against any defense subsequently intended to establish and utilize diamonds, but he offers no solution, so we must help.

Bidding went: South, 1-Spade; North, 2-Clubs; South, 2-Spades; North, 2-No Trumps; South, 3-No Trumps.

Before winning the opening lead in dummy, review the probabilities. The odds are 35 to 1 that spades cannot be established before diamonds are given up by giving opponents the first spade trick. The odds are 66 to 1 that clubs can be established by giving opponents two tricks, before diamonds can be established. Perhaps the 10 men played for spades. We will try clubs.

Q of clubs. East's Ace will win and he will lead another diamond. Win with dummy's Ace and lead back another club. When West plays the 9, finesse declarer's 10, as the one best hope of losing no more tricks in the suit. East's 4 will win and he will lead his third diamond, hoping to gain entry with the Q of hearts. Win the trick with declarer's Q.

Declarer has won three diamond tricks. Opponents have won two club tricks. North holds three established clubs and East has two established diamonds. To go game the declarer has the following simple eight-card problem to solve, as shown in diagram.

To fulfill his contract North has to win three club tricks, two Spade tricks and one heart trick. Run off the three club tricks. That may embarrass defenders. Let go one of dummy's spades and one of his hearts. Probably East will let go both his useless spades, which will indicate plainly enough that he hasn't the Ace of hearts, or he would be more likely to hold his spades, although declarer has no idea how major suit cards are divided. West must let go a single spade and two hearts. Win a trick with dummy's K of spades. Lead back a heart. If the Ace does not go win with the K, then take ninth trick with the good spade.

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

CHAPTER 31

DOUGLAS remarked that Consuelo, if she returned to the gypsy camp would be a trouble-maker. Consuelo did not hear Doug. She looked down again at the jewelry and slowly picked up the square cut ruby necklace which had been on Stewart's first gift to her.

"I shall take this. It is good perhaps to have something which might time to show—something which might make them want me to stay." She fastened on the necklace and gathered up the rest of the jewels in her hands. "Take them, Douglas, they belong to a gypsy." She poured overboard. She looked until they then and shook the cheap costume bracelets which, with her gaudy costume, she still wore from the theater. "These for a gypsy. Anklets I shall buy again." Her eyes fell upon a diamond bracelet caught on the edge of his pocket. "Still, it is a shame to give them all away. She took the bracelet and put it on her arm, making a little face up at him.

"Gosh, ain't they what am I going to do with all this stuff?" Doug shoved them further down into his pockets. "Just ripe for the gangsters." He wiped his brow. "I can already see me lying cold and stiff on the sidewalk."

"Oh, Douglas, don't, or I shall take them all back." He sidestepped her. "In any event I see myself in the lap of ease and luxury, no longer a prey for an old lady with a Peckinpaw. Any old clothes, lady, rags, bottles, socks."

She kicked a fur coat contemptuously with her foot. "Bah! Give them back to Stewart. He likes them so well." She spread the shawl the Dummy had given her on the floor and heaped her money and gypsy clothing upon it. "These I shall take. Who else could wear them but me?"

"Like that? No suitcases? No trunks?" "What would I want with a trunk?" She knotted the corners of the shawl together, the gay clothes leaking out. With quick, deft movements she shoved them in and pulled the knots together. She looked around.

"On the train like that?" "Eh? And why not?" She stopped. "Oh, Doug—the train—I had forgotten. Call—quick, find out when one leaves—get me a ticket—anything—quick—I'll get it."

A few moments later Doug's voice reached her from the other end of the car. "The only one tonight leaves in just 10 minutes; can you make it?" and at her answering "Yes," he returned to the bedroom. "Snap into it now, baby, otherwise you'll have to wait for the morning train. Go to the Pennsylvania station. You'll have to go on to Pittsburgh and then take a bus back to Greensburg. Train fare $15.52 without a berth. Change your clothes if you're going too. You can't go and we'll be off."

"Money, you ask me if I've got money? When did I ever have money? Four dollars and 30 cents, baby, is my total capital at the present moment."

"Oh—! She sat down, half saluting. "But, Douglas, I must have some—the train—the bus—food—Stewart—no, I can't do that. Oh, damnation! What shall I do?" "Listen, baby, all kidding aside, you mean to sit there and tell me you haven't got any money? No cash? What about your weekly checks from Godlie? Come, come, you must have some."

She shrugged her shoulders. "Stewart's secretary takes them. My fine fellow tells me I must put them safe in a bank. Now, who ever heard of a gypsy putting money in a bank? She looked up at him. "But it's not money—this paper stuff with words written on it—gold it is I want—silver dollars—I have not seen a dozen pieces in all of this New York. Always it is Stewart signs something. Always it is he says, 'What do you need money for? Any thing you want I'll get you.' All I have got is a bank book and what good is that now when I have need of a train ticket?"

"For once I'm inclined to agree with you," Doug scratched the back of his head. "Nearly two o'clock in the morning and train time getting closer and closer—gosh! Now, let's see—there's Stewart—only he's out. Who else—where else—I got it, the apartment house manager down—"

shortly afterward.

He suffered serious burns in an attempt to save his neighbor child, Barker, 7 also was badly injured.

How Medics Discovered Chloroform as Anesthesia

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A FEW YEARS ago, just before the war, there was a great deal of discussion in the newspapers and magazines about "twilight sleep," a method of preventing pain for women in childbirth. The idea was by no means new, although certain enthusiastic advocates of the method, which was called "twilight sleep," would lead one to believe it was.

As a matter of fact, soon after anesthesia with ether was proved to be a success, which was in 1846, people began to look for an anesthetic which was adapted to cases of childbirth.

In the gray Scotch town of Edinburgh, one of the most famous obstetricians in the world then practicing was James Y. Simpson. He had been interested in this subject for many years; indeed, from the time that as a little peasant boy he had become aware of his mother's sufferings during the birth of his younger brothers and sisters.

As soon as the discovery of ether was announced, Simpson made a journey to London and observed its effects in the surgical clinic of Robert Liston.

Discovers Chloroform

In 1847, about a year after ether was first publicly used, he returned home after a weary day's labor with his two assistants, Doctors Keith and Duncan. They found a package from a chemist who had been working with them, containing a very heavy liquid, which was called "chloroform."

They at first thought from its weight that it would be of little value as an anesthetic, but all three began to use it on a number of cases and found it to be a success. Their fatigue vanished, conversation was of unusual intelligence, and they became bright-eyed and happy, and suddenly there was a crash and one after the other fell to the floor. Doctor Simpson awoke first and found Doctor Duncan beneath a chair, his jaw dropped, his eyes staring, quite unconscious, and snoring in a most determined manner.

Doctor Simpson had an enormous obstetric practice, and soon put this substance, chloroform, to a practical test. He reported on Nov. 18, 1847, to the Medical-Chirurgical Society: "I have now seen an immense amount of maternal pain and agony saved by its employment. And I most conscientiously believe that the proud mission of the physician is distinctly twofold—namely to alleviate human suffering as well as preserve human life."

Opposition Develops
Considerable opposition developed to its use on the basis that Divine Providence did not intend women to bear children painlessly. "How unnatural," an Irish woman said to Doctor Simpson, "for you doctors in Edinburgh to take away the pains of your patients?"

"How unnatural," he replied, "it is for you to have swam over from Ireland to Scotland, against wind and tide, in a steamboat."

The victory for the idea of anesthesia in childbirth was won when Doctor Simpson received a letter in April, 1853, from Sir James Clark, physician to Queen Victoria, stating that he had administered chloroform to Her Majesty during her last confinement, and that she expressed herself well pleased with the result.

THEATRES

AT THE CIRCLE

The presentation of Jessie Matthews, the newest star of Gaumont British, in "Evergreen," now being shown at the Circle theatre, proves how admirably a spectacular musical show may sustain the course of a suspenseful romance. Appropriately placed scenes in the filmed theatre shown in "Evergreen" afford the opportunity for the display of Miss Matthews' and her associates' talents as singers and dancers. They are backgrounded with a beauty chorus as large as any ever assembled for a film production.

AT THE GRAND

Fay Wray and Ralph Bellamy, who were co-starred recently in Columbia's "Below the Sea," again play opposite each other on "Once to Every Woman." At the Grand theatre tomorrow. "Once to Every Woman" is based on the A. J. Cronin Cosmopolitan novelette, "Kaleidoscope in K." Lambert Hillyer directed from a Jo Swerling script. Walter Sweeney, Mary Carlisle and Walter Byron are featured in the supporting cast.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Otto Kruger, featured with Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery in "Vanessa: Her Love Story," at the Cliftona theatre, is a native of Toledo, Ohio, descendant of an old Dutch family. Educated at the University of Michigan, Columbus and other colleges for seventeen years without ever acquiring a degree. Worked as forest ranger and telephone lineman before becoming an actor. Played in some minor companies, then crashed New York. Appeared on the stage in "The Natural Law," "Young America," "Seven Chances," "Here Comes the Bride," "The Gypsy Trail," "To the Ladies," "Will Shakespeare," "Trelawney of the Wells," "The Great Barrington," "Counsellor-at-Law" and "Private Lives." Signed a long-term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios and has distinguished himself in "Beauty for Sale," "The Prizefighter and the Lady," "The Comeback," and many other hits.

trucked to an improvised voting booth in the basement of Toledo's new federal building from 9 a. m. yesterday to 7:30 last night to cast secret ballots on the company proposals for settling the strike that has thrown more than 30,000 auto workers in a score of General Motors plants into unemployment.

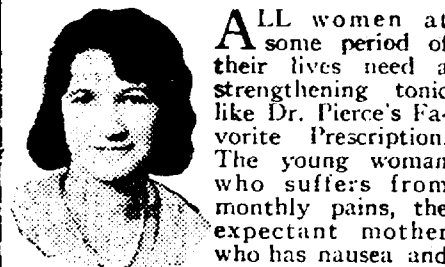

The vote was announced as 1,251 rejecting the proposals and 605 accepting. A total of 1,856 ballots were imperfectly marked.

Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, and Thomas J. Williams, federal conciliator, conducted the poll.

McGrady and Williams were to attempt to meet with officials of General Motors Corp., today in a further attempt to settle the dispute, thrown into a turmoil again by yesterday's vote.

Fred Schwake, U. A. W. U. business agent, said the vote came out "just as I expected." He said: "We are eager to open negotiations as soon as possible. There are 35,000 men and women idle in the industry and we are anxious to have them back on their jobs under satisfactory wage and working conditions. We will do our best to have their earning power restored as soon as possible."

V-8 POWER
COMFORT ZONE RIDING
FORD ECONOMY

Get a FORD and get them all

The V-type engine has significant advantages... Advantages in performance... Advantages in economy... Yet only Ford has found a way to bring a V-8 engine within reach of everyone.

THIS IS AN ENGINE you'd be proud of in a car costing thousands of dollars more than a Ford... 85 miles an hour if you want it... Pickup that gets you out of traffic jams easier... enables you to pass other cars on the road with greater safety... makes all driving in this 1935 Ford car easier, pleasanter and more economical.

THE FORD FOR 1935 is an 8-cylinder car that actually costs no more to run than a 4... It develops more power for every penny you spend for gasoline... New crankcase ventilation makes lubrication more efficient... New brake construction lessens brake wear... Aluminum cylinder heads eliminate carbon and give premium performance with regular priced gasoline. Ford valves require no adjustment... Ford never built a car that cost less to operate than this big, luxurious, powerful V-8 for 1935.

TONIGHT'S WINNERS TO BE CHALLENGED

Challenges are going to be hurled right and left tonight when Norman Aronson's second amateur card is staged at Seipp park. The evening's entertainment begins at 8:30 with Cum Robinson to be the third man in the ring. Hershel Moats, who tips the beam at about 150 pounds, is ready to challenge Willie Gaines if Gaines defeats Salty Toles. Moats draws the color line therefore will

NELLIE FLAG IS FAVORED

Big Filly Expected to Follow Mother to Victory in Pimlico Preakness

BALTIMORE, May 9—Lovers of the long-stay today were praying for rain Saturday and the name on every tongue was Nellie Flag, a brown, buxom bounding filly with feet as effective as the fins of a fish.

For Saturday will see the forty-fifth running of the Preakness stakes—Maryland's most glamorous classic of the track at Pimlico's old hill-top park.

And railbird and aristocrat alike recall how, back in 1924, Nellie Flag's sweet mama, Nellie Morse, under the silks of Bud (Mutt and Jeff) Fisher, copied this same classic under weather conditions that would have given pause to Johnnie Weismueller and a school of middle-aged shad.

Nellie Morse, as beautiful as a movie queen, broke the hearts that day of 14 other horses—all mated—who floundered behind in a glut of goo, just seeing Nellie home. Incidentally, she paid off a dozen to one.

Nellie Flag, her game daughter, arrived in Baltimore Tuesday from Louisville, where she ran fourth in the derby. The track at Churchill was a bit too fast for her liking. The Flag wants a lot of mud to make the going good, and a few days before the derby she whipped a fast field on a sloppy track. This installed her as a favorite in the derby, but she didn't live up to expectations.

"PITILESS POLE" DEFEATS BURESH

COLUMBUS, May 9—Alex Kaschewski, the "Pitiless Pole," today reigned as an unopposed champion of the lightweight division after his surprise defeat of the "Wild Bushman," Stanley Buresh, in a rough and tumble encounter last night.

Buresh proved his own undoing when he launched a "kangaroo kick," his specialty at Kasobowski but, when the latter sidestepped, Buresh became so entangled in the ropes that the "Pole" scored an easy verdict.

DAVEY TO PICK NEW HEAD FOR LIQUOR OFFICE

Burk, Advised He Is Ineligible, Resigns; Crawford-co Judge Favored

COLUMBUS, May 3.—With Probate Judge J.W. Miller, Bucyrus, reported to be his choice, Gov. Martin L. Davey today was expected to appoint a successor to Clarence H. Burk, New London, who has conceded his ineligibility to continue in office and resigned effective May 11.

Miller has been probate judge of Crawford-co for seven years. In urging the governor to appoint him, the judge's friends have pointed out that he was the county's original "Davey-for-governor" man.

Davey said Burk has done "an exceptionally fine job" as liquor director and will be retained in a responsible position in the liquor department. He was expected to be named supervisor of state liquor stores.

Advised Unlawful
In his letter of resignation Burk said counsel has advised him his position is untenable and that the state supreme court, which has before it ouster proceedings instituted by Attorney General John W. Bricker, would in all probability hold against Burk.

Grounds for the ouster action was Burk's service in the 90th General Assembly which created the position of liquor director. Ohio's constitution forbids a legislator from accepting a position created by an assembly of which he was a member, until after one year following the expiration of his term.

Burk's unexpected action in appealing to the attorney general at the eleventh hour to enter the proper pleading in answer to the ouster proceedings remained unexplained. Some thought his purpose was to get a formal ruling from the supreme court for future guidance of the governor's office.

Directed Finance
In accepting his resignation "with regret," Davey said he hoped to find "an equally high type man" to succeed him. When Burk resigned from the legislature in July, 1933, he became director of finance in former Gov. George White's cabinet, serving until the latter's retirement on Jan. 14 this year.

BROWN EYES WIN
PARIS.—The most beautiful eyes in Paris officially belong to Miss Mireille Ponzard, whose eyes are brown and flecked with gold. She was one of 30 candidates for the title. They wore masks and wore a number on their chin as they paraded in front of the judges.

UNAPPETIZING RABBITS
PARIS.—Residents of Villejuif, Paris suburb, have sworn off eating rabbits for the rest of the season, a thief had entered Paul-Brusse hospital during the night and stole eight rabbits. The eight rabbits had all been inoculated within the last few days with either tuberculosis or a variety of cancer.

Leads Croat Uprising

Dr. Vladimir Mueck

Militant crusader for autonomy of the Croatian minority in Yugoslavia, Dr. Vladimir Mueck, above published an open letter of protest to Regent Nicholas in which he denounced numerous arrests of candidates opposing those sponsored by the administration. When 1,000 Croats rallied at his home in Zagreb, one was killed and many wounded as police tried to disperse the gathering. More than 18 have been slain during election activities by Croats and the Serbs, who are in the majority.
